EXECUTIVE BIO

Travis J Batt, Founder / Agency Director

Digital infrastructure design, marketing strategy and entrepreneurial ecosystem development.

An industry pioneer since 1996, Travis Batt is a veteran marketer, professional photographer with works registered in the Library of Congress, and a trusted digital infrastructure advisor who has guided tech strategy for Fortune 100 enterprises and municipal governments. Since founding Batt Industries in 2004, he has championed small business growth, local communities, and early network adoption, partnering with tech giants like Google from the inception of search engine strategy to next-gen AI developments. Today, he leverages this rich legacy to keep modern entrepreneurs on the bleeding edge of business transformation through full-stack development, managed digital services, and strategic Gen-AI implementation.
